USC TROJAN FAMILY WEEKEND

Thursday, October 12 – Sunday, October 15
Dear USC Families:

On behalf of the USC community, I warmly welcome you to Trojan Family Weekend 2017.

The next few days will give you a glimpse into the many opportunities across the university—academic, personal and professional—that comprise a USC student experience.

In the Division of Student Affairs, our team strives to provide all students with an unparalleled university experience by nurturing the development of their minds, encouraging their health and wellness and creating a sense of community and belonging.

As you learn about the myriad offerings, we encourage you to ask our staff any questions that may come to mind. We believe that informed and engaged parents give critical support to students as they build successful college careers, and we value you as a partner.

Thank you again for supporting your student, and have a wonderful Trojan Family Weekend.

Fight On!

Sincerely,

Ainsley Carry

FOLLOW THE DOTS TO STAY ON TRACK!

As your student continues to move through their time at USC, there is unique information that is helpful for you to know at different stages. In planning which Trojan Family Weekend events to attend, you will notice many of the programs are highlighted with a colored dot, or track. These tracks suggest the college year that the topic is best suited for. We want to ensure that no matter what year your student is in, that you can help them in taking advantage of all the benefits the university has to offer.
